Liberty Day-The Bartholdi Parade.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD UNION.] DOMESTIC NEWS.

New York, October 26th.-The last official action taken by the American committee and Major-General Schofield yester-day was to decide to have the Bartholdi to take part in the ceremonies at the statue, will leave the procession at the side streets, from Wall street to the Battery, and embark on transports. When the column turns into Park Row it will pass under a triumphal arch spanning the street from the World building to the Postoffice. The arch will be one of the largest ever built in New York, measuring 84 feet from the World building to the Postoffice, and standing 60 feet from the start at center of the great span. In the evening the arch and exterior of the building will be illuminated by colored lights during the displays of in the inauguration of the Bartholdi Statue, will consist of seven persons, as follows: The President, Secretary of State, Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of the Interior, Postmaster-General, and the President's Private Secretary. They will leave Washington at 3:50 o'clock Wednes-day afternoon, and expect to return by midnight Thursday.

BARTHOLDI PLEASED. NEW YORK, October 26th .- Referring to the manner in which the great statue has been erected, Bartholdi said to a reporter: "I am more than gratified with the pedestal and setting. We had a good view coming up on the Bretagne, and I am still enjoying that moment of triumph. One thing ought to be done, and one only, as far as I can see, to improve the effect. The walls of Fort Wood are a trifle too high and too widespreading for the mass of the statue and pedestal. They need to be shaved down by cutting off a little at the top and then terracing. We were afraid at first the Brooklyn bridge might hurt us. The bridge and statue are both colored. The suspension of District At-torney Stone was made for similar reasons. Of the suspended officers, Benton is a Dem-ocrat and Stone a Republican. Female Complaints. In the majority of female diseases the Extract can be useful. Fall directions accompany each bottle.

CAUTION.

The bridge might hurt us. The bridge and statue are both colossal. Set near together they might dwarf each other. They are just far enough apart to fit in well with the great scope of sea and sky. Nothing on the whole could have been a greater success. The site and work are both property to the Secretary of the Treasury, from which it appears that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886, he settled are both colossal.

In addition to this consideration, it is of the utmost importance that the State Government should be returned to Republican control from the incompetence that now dominates it. To this end no Republican should cast a vote that will weaken Republican strength in any county. Those who have gone off into side shows should ask themselves what they are really doing. Reflection must convince them that the inevitable result is contribution to Democratic strength. This no Republican desires. How, then, can any consistently declare allegiance to the principles of the party, and at the same time furnish supplies of war to the enemy?

Let Republicans rally to the support of their ticket, and refuse to be parties to any trading side show or other scheme to rob it of a tithe of its strength.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Local Wine and Brandy Interests. The vine and grape-growers of the Sacraoffered to them from the grape-growers, and their wineries and distilleries have been taxed to their fullest capacity. At least 6,000 tons of grapes have been received by them from Sacramento and points of shipment near the city—Florin, Elk Grove, Folsom, Antelope, Roseville, Rocklin, Pino and other places.

The growers that have raised the fine value of the state and adding to our population. They have re-established their immigration agency in Chicago, and have placed a gentleman in charge who will send all the immigrants coming through his agency to this Society.

I have arranged with Mr. Goodman for

The growers that have raised the fine varieties of wine grapes for claret and white wine have, on an average, realized from their grapes $20 per ton, which, at the average yield of four tons to the acre from vineyards of three to five years' growth, month. I have sent a circular letter to all averages from $60 to $100 per acre. This would seem to be largely in excess of the value of grain grown on the same lands that will produce grapes without irrigation.

The same character. The fall travel much the same character. The fall travel much the same character. The fall travel much the same character. California seems to be the favored spot of the world for this interest. Central and the world for this interest. Central and northern California can produce the fruits of France, Italy, Spain, South America, and in fact all the tropical regions of the civilized world, and in greater perfection. Our raisins have to a very large extent stopped the importation of the Malaga, and five years more will find Californians exporters instead of buyers.

The brandy new wednesd in Californians extra from September 30th to October 26th, 136;

The brandy now produced in California has to a large extent stopped the importa-tion of the so-called fine cognacs—finely flavored spirits from potatoes and beets, mixed, perhaps, with some brandy from the refuse of the grape crop.
We have in Sacramento to-day a distillery incorporated in 1871, that produces brandy superior to any of the cognacs im-ported. We refer to the Johnston company. This company has for the past six years contracted for the entire products of their distillery with Messrs. Walden & Co., of Philadelphia. This year the distillery was leased to them and Messrs. Beringer & Co., of St. Helena, who have run the distillery to the full capacity, making nothing but brandy. The product will probably reach 40,000 gallons for the season. James I. Felter, who has been connected with the company since its organization, has been managing the distillery this season for the lessees, and from him we learn that there is a new project on foot that will before next vintage probably culminate in one of the largest wine and brandy establishments of the State being located in Sacramento, or its immediate vicinity. Grape-growers should only put out the finest varieties of wine grapes, and success is insured.

Suit for Damages. In Department Two of the Superior

Court Judge Van Fleet is hearing the case of Martin Hayden vs. the Sacramento and Placerville Railroad Company, in which plaintiff, by his guardian, John H. Hayden, his son, brings suit for $25,000 damages. July 15, 1885, plaintiff, who owns a hog ranch and had been collecting swill with his horse and wagon, started to cross the manner that he alighted upon his head and shoulders, and received such injury that he has become of unsound mind, and city for some time pass crossing in such bad condition, that when Hayden attempted to cross his wagon Now and again complaint is made to the railroad company of the theft of valises, to stop, and before he could move on overcoats, etc., from passenger trains or the depots, and on investigation the loss has always been traceable to the lack of caution manifested by the losers of the property. manifested by the losers of the property. Men and women go out of the cars or depot leaving their baggage at the mercy of whoever sees fit to take it, and the wonder is not stellar when it can be an ever sees fit to take it, and the wonder is that more is not stolen when it can be appropriated so easily. A few days ago a man, recently from Arizona, had been telling in a car of his having just sold a certain property in that Territory for a considerable sum, and when, shortly afterwards, opportunity offered to steal his valise, the thief doubtless thought he would find in it the doubtless thought he would find in it the ing, the whistle also having been blown to proceeds of the sale of the Arizona property, but it contained only some dirty linen. On another occasion a lady had her satchel stolen. She had a short time before the stolen was a short time before the stolen bettles of medicine for her the stolen and the stolen are the stolen and the stolen are the stolen as the stolen are the stolen are the stolen as the stolen are stolen. She had a short time before wrapped up two bottles of medicine for her baby, and placed them very carefully in the satchel, which contained little else. It is likely the individual who appropriated it had noticed the care she exercised, and surmised that she was putting away something of great value. Railway officials enthing of great value. Tuesday, November 2, 1886.

SECTION 1. All property in the State, except railroads, not exempt under the laws of the United States, shall be taxed in proportion to its value, to be ascertained as provided by law. The word property, as used in this article and section, is hereby declared to include moneys, credits, bonds, stocks, dues, franchises and all other matters and things, real, personal and mixed, capable of private ownership; provided, that growing crops, property used exclusively for public schools, and such as may belong to the United States, this State, or any county or municipal corporation within this State, shall be exempt from taxation. Growing vines and fruit trees shall be deemed to be and shall be assessed and taxed as a part of the realty; and, provided further, that railroads shall be taxed as provided in Section Ten of this article; and, provided further, that the Legislature may provide for the exemption from taxation of ships and vessels owned and registered or enrolled in this State, or may tax such ships and vessels on their gross or net earnings, in lieu of an ad valorem tax. The Legislature may also provide, except in case of credits secured by mortgage or trust deed, for a deduction from credits of debts due to bona fide residents of this State. Double taxation in any form is prohibited. The amendment is designated "Amendment Number One," and the BALLOTS used at such election must contain the words, "FOR THE AMENDMENT Number One," or the words, 'AGAINST THE AMENDMENT Number One.'

counts of the bursting of the cannon at the Democratic meeting in French Corral the other night, show that Senator Cross was bending over and gesticulating to the crowd, whom he wished to stand further back, when the gun burst and a piece flew over the Senator's head. Had he been standing erect, it would have killed him. Charles Bradford, the man killed, was the gunner. He knew his danger, as the wad was too big for the cannon, but he said he would take his chances. Bradford's head was blown off his body, and was picked up at a distance of twenty-four paces from the rest of the remains. Strange to say, the features were natural, and without scar or wound.

WHEAT—The tone of the market this morning was not quite sostrong as it was yesterday during 'Change hours. Exporters purchased rather heavily on Monday, and their immediate necessities have been pretty well supplied. Still there is goo! demand, and sampling is quite general, but it is not so ea y to obtain $1 40 for an article of desirable quality as it was twenty-four hours ago. It must be something choice to command that figure at the moment. Holders are inclined to self, as a rule, but the question of rain is beginning to become a feature in their calculations, and operates in some cases against the positive offering of certain parcels of versin.
